Robillard's residence is located on the grounds of the football field, in the Bloques Rosa or of the Council, and part of the c/Padre Pedro Velasco. The gate to the immense orchard was on calle Río Tajo.

It consisted of 22 rooms, with 5 fountains and surrounded by irrigation canals. It had 3 greenhouses, one of them with a heater for tropical plants.

The factory: It was located near the Church of la Inmaculada de Vera.

His arboricultural establishment turned Malvarrosa into a garden, a nursery with an infinite variety of plants, trees, shrubs and flowers.

The factory distilled essences of hollyhock, verbena, mugwort, tuberose, almond oils, and was a pioneer in using essence of patchouli.

His world-famous perfumes are exhibited at the Andorran Perfume Museum, the Barcelona Museum and the New York Perfume Museum, which collects an inventory of French designer packaging.
